Jim Hinckley is known as the "Father of Route 66." He has spent decades exploring, researching, and promoting the iconic Mother Road. Join him on a virtual road trip along a scenic 160-mile stretch of Route 66 from Kingman to Topock in Arizona.

Mile 0: Kingman, Arizona

Kick off your adventure in Kingman, a bustling city with a rich mining history. Visit the Kingman Powerhouse Museum to learn about the area's electric power generation, and then stroll down Beale Street to admire historic buildings and local artwork.

Mile 30: Hackberry, Arizona

Step back in time at the Hackberry General Store, a nostalgic spot that has remained virtually unchanged since its opening in the 1920s. Fuel up with lunch and browse through vintage goods and antiques.

Mile 60: Seligman, Arizona

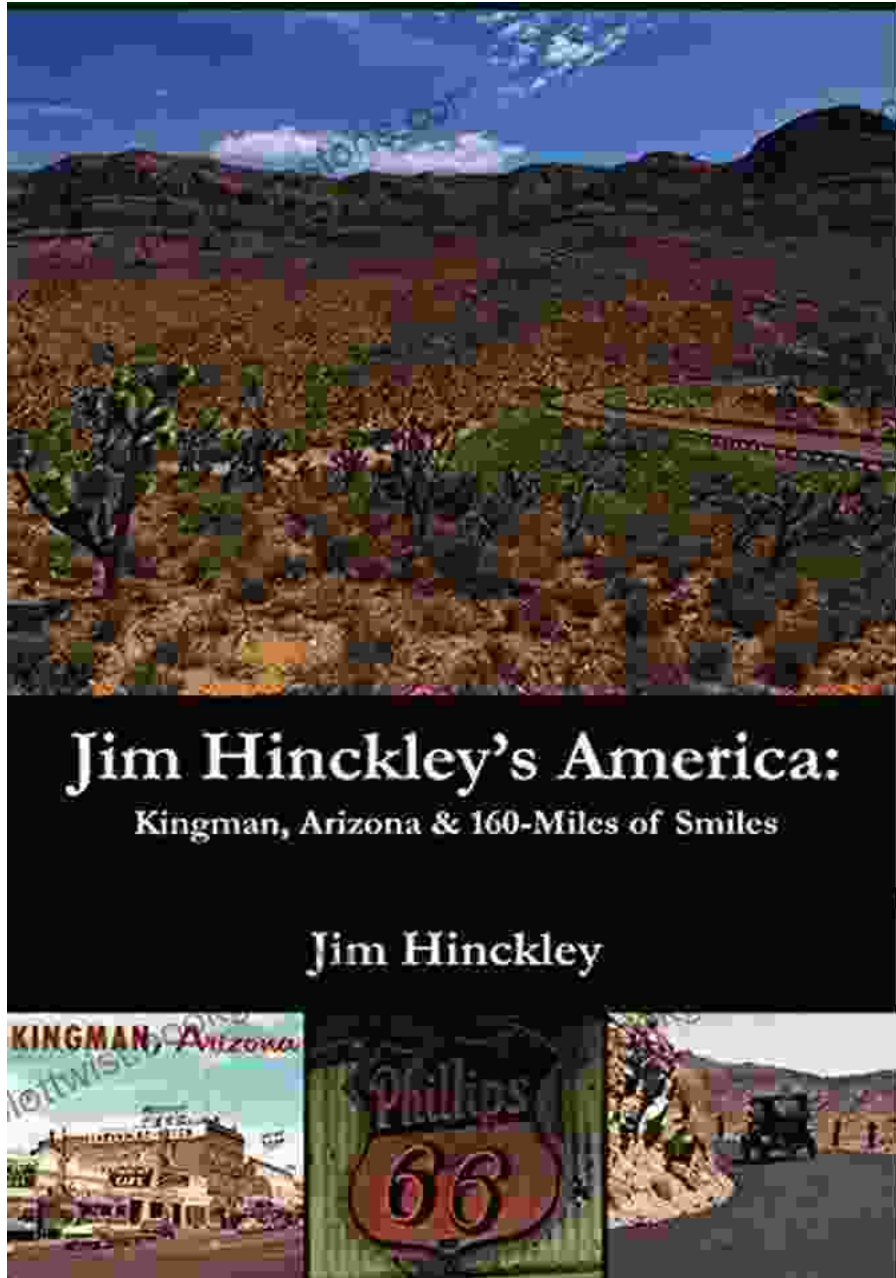

Seligman is a vibrant hub for Route 66 enthusiasts. Admire the colorful murals at the Snow Cap Drive-In, grab a bite at the historic Red Onion Restaurant, and don't miss the "World's Largest Teepee."

Mile 90: Peach Springs, Arizona

Discover the underground wonders of the Grand Canyon Caverns, a vast system of caves with stunning stalactite and stalagmite formations. Take a guided tour to explore the subterranean beauty.

Mile 120: Hualapai Valley

Witness the stunning scenery of the Hualapai Valley, where rugged mountains meet the vast expanse of the desert. Enjoy a scenic drive and soak up the panoramic views.

Mile 150: Oatman, Arizona

Venture into the charming mining town of Oatman, where burros roam the streets and historic buildings evoke the Wild West. Pan for gold, visit the Oatman Hotel, and experience the authentic Old West atmosphere.

Mile 160: Topock, Arizona

Conclude your road trip at Topock, where the Colorado River flows by and marks the end of this scenic 160-mile stretch. Take a leisurely stroll along the riverbank, enjoy a picnic, and admire the serene beauty of the Colorado River Valley.

Tips for Travelers

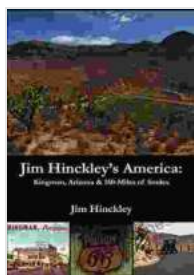

- Plan your trip during the spring or fall for the most pleasant weather.
- Allow ample time to explore each stop and soak up the unique atmosphere.
- Bring plenty of water and snacks, as services can be limited in some areas.
- Consider renting a classic car for an authentic Route 66 experience.

- Don't forget to take plenty of photos and capture the memories of your unforgettable road trip.
